DADS AND SONS ENJOY BANQUET

HELD LAST NIGHT AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

'THE VOYAGE OF BOYHOOD'

Was Discussed in After Dinner Speeches, Both Fathers and Sons Giving Viewpoints.

A large crowd of fathers and sons attended the banquet given at the Christian church last night as a part of Father and Sons Week, which will extend until Sunday. The crowd numbered about two hundred. Music was furnished during the serving by the Caugh family orchestra.

The meal was served by sixteen girls under the direction of Mrs. Blaine Archer. Soon after the guests had seated the plates were all on the table.

After the meal the speaking was in charge of the toastmaster, E. W. Atkinson. A few announcements were made to the crowd in which the Dads were urged to come to the football game and see the sons in action, both today and Saturday.

Following this the regular order of the program was carried out.

The launching of the ship and the trial spins were given by the toastmaster. Mr. Atkinson said that at this age the life of a child was a large question mark. They were always asking questions from some one. It was just their "trial spin" in their early life.

Following this C. R. Gardner played "Sailing, Sailing Over the Deep Blue Sea," with violin accompaniment by C. D. Kutschinski.

The crew was dealt with by Richard Baker. In his talk he emphasized the importance of carefully picking of your crew both on the ship and in life.

Harold Moore spoke on, "Whidh port are you bound for?" In this he explained how the sea of life has many ports to which we may drift or may sail straight into and it was up to us to find out for which port we are best suited and to sail the straight path there.

The subject of "Charts and Compass" was dealt with by Fred Kurtz. In his talk he urged that every one would let Christ be the only compass by which we sail by, and if we do this we are sure to sail into the port safely.

The Rev. J. A. Cooper spoke on "Derelicts." He took up the subject from the physical, mental, social and religious side, and explained how too many boys let themselves become derelicts in the sea of life.

The group then sang, "My Bonnie Lies Over the Ocean."

Uel W. Lamkin then spoke on "Safe in Port." In this talk Mr. Lamkin said that too many ships after they reach port are let lie idle and are never used any more. This should not be so, because these ships are of fine quality and should not be wasted.

Superintendent L. G. Somerville sang "Jesus, Savior Pilot Me."

Following this the benediction was pronounced by the Rev. R. E. Snodgrass.

BOY ROBBERS HAD PLANNED BIG JOBS

WHEN ARRESTED YESTERDAY IN KANSAS CITY

CASE OF 3 UP TODAY

In Porterfield's Juvenile Court and Will Be Decided Tomorrow— Harmon Sentenced Yesterday

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 10—Investigations are proceeding this afternoon in the cases of Joseph Rigney, Phillip Schlein and Harold Allen of Maryville, youthful robbers, by Judge Porterfield in the juvenile court but at 3 o'clock had not decided upon any sentence and probably would not until tomorrow.

George Harmon, of Maryville, leader and fourth member of the gang, was yesterday sentenced to five years in the penitentiary by Judge Latshaw. Harmon was 19 years old.

The following account was taken from last night's Kansas City Star:

George Harmon of Maryville, Mo., 19 years old, the eldest of a band of alleged thieves, pleaded guilty to second degree burglary and grand larceny today before Judge Latshaw, and was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary.

Harmon admitted entering the home of J. W. Witherspoon, 3422 Olive street November 5, and setaling clothing and jewelry valued at $85. He was given three years on the burglary and two years on the larceny count.

Three Others Are Held

Joseph Rigney, 15 years old, 3518 Wayne street; Philip Schlein, 3826 Benton boulevard, and Harold Allen of Maryville, both 17 years old, other members of the band, are in the detention home. They probably will be arranged before Judge Porterfield in juvenile court tomorrow.

Judge Latshaw declined today to hear the cases against Schlein and Allen because of their youthfulness.

Allen yesterday pointed out to patrolmen twelve residences here he said the gang recently had robbed. Patrolmen A. J. Bergman and L. L. McDonald arrested the boys.

Philip Schlein is an old juvenile court offender. In April, 1921, he confessed robbing more than twenty homes here in two weeks. At that time he told that the robberies were committed to aid his family, saying that his father provided the family with $25 a week.

Victims Refuse to Prosecute

His story, with the fact that he evidenced a religious tendency by praying frequently in the detention home, won the sympathy of his victims and they declined to prosecute. He had been paroled from the reformatory at Boonville in August, 1920, having been given a 4-year sentence there in 1918. Judge Porterfield gave him a new sentence of four years instead of returning him to serve his old one. On good behavior Schlein was to be paroled from the new sentence in eighteen months.

Additional color was added to his case here in 1921 when Schlein made three attempts to commit suicide, two preceding and one following his sentence by Judge Porterfield.

He was stopped by patrolmen at the Woodland avenue police station when he attempted to strangle himself with a belt. An attempt to suffocate himself with a blanket was frustrated by Mrs. Ella Paisley, matron at the detention home. In his third attempt he tried to strangle himself with a necktie, but the matron again stopped him.

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN NODAWAY COUNTY

TWO PARTIES TO DISEASE PREVENTION.

St. Joseph News-Press.

Despite marked progress of medical science in other fields, as yet no cure for cancer has been discovered, but leading authorities are agreed that cancer sufferers may be helped where the trouble is within reach in its early stages. That the public may be informed in the steps necessary to guard against fatality, the week of Nov. 12 to 18, has been designated as national cancer week, and it will be observed generally throughout the country. A committee of physicians and social workers will see that the subject is properly presented in St. Joseph.

Medical men emphasize the fact that the next great era of their profession will be marked by the extended use of arresting measures, and therefore a gradually reduced need of treatment. In showing people how they may avoid disease and retain their health, physicians see an opportunity for even greater service than has been possible in the direct attention they have been called upon to give patients in homes and hospitals.

But it should be clearly understood that this important development in the medical profession and the public health is dependent upon a high degree of co-operation with the agencies that may have to do with physical well-being in any community. The fact that a city has a health department is not enough. A recent report of the Rockefeller Foundation emphasized the fact that when public health agencies had done their utmost they could deal adequately with only about 20 per cent of the ills that afflict the race.

Who must deal with the rest? Obviously the people themselves—every man, woman and child. They should follow the instructions of health agencies in preventing smallpox, diphtheria cancer, typhoid fever, tuberculosis and other dangerous afflictions.

The United States public health service advises walking a mile a day as an assurance of healthful condition. It also advises that houses should be well ventilated, that sleeping room windows should be left open at night and that dwelling places should be moderately heated in winter. How may persons heed this advice? During the war a large proportion of men were rejected for military service because of physical defects that might have been corrected by proper attention in childhood. How many parents have taken this lesson to heart?

People are careless about their own health and the health of their children. They neglect the simple rules for healthful living that are everywhere known. There must be a change in this attitude if the era of "preventive measures" in medicine is to meet the success it deserves.

It's the wonder-flavor and crispness that wins for Kellogg's

"King Corn, here is your breakfast! A whole great big bowl of Kellogg's that's fit for any King, and that's why I say they're fit for you, because they never get tough or hard to eat, Mr. King!"

Every spoonful of Kellogg's Corn Flakes is a taste sensation—a thrill! Such delicious flavor in a cereal! And, Kellogg's crisp crunchiness beats description! Kellogg's are never tough, never leathery, never hard to eat!

Little folks, as well as big folks, will mighty quickly "speak their piece" about Kellogg's! No imitation ever could compare with Kellogg's Corn Flakes—and your good taste will prove that!

Advertising Needs Time to Develop Opportunities

Give Advertising Time: That is the thing it needs most.

The advertising agency is the precocious infant among the professions. One of the oldest agencies in New York prints on its letterheads the date of its founding, and that date is 1869! Think of it—almost ten years after the Civil War; and the boys of the Civil War are still alive among us.

Law traces its ideals and traditions back to Moses; but even Law is not free from missteps. The physician takes his Hippocratic oaths, and Hippocrates lived 400 B. C.

Yet it was only yesterday when doctors discovered that bad teeth can cause anything serious. Is it fair to expect perfection in a profession that counts only a single generation to its credit? Should it occasion surprise when even a well-laid advertising campaign goes wrong? Is it any wonder that workers whose chief raw material is human nature should have to confess that they cannot always tell in advance just how that raw material will act?

We are learning. We have just passed through one great cycle of inflation and deflation. We know now what happens to the automobile business, and the shoe business and the perfumery business when prices go up like a rocket and come down like a stick. How much wiser counsellors to our customers we shall be when another cycle swings around. How much better we shall be able to read the signs of the storm, having passed through one such tempest.

Do you remember the references in English novels to those old law firms—solicitors—in which sons have succeeded their fathers to the third and fourth generation? Each new generation of lawyers has handled the affairs of the new generation among its clients, dealing out counsel based on records which run back for a hundred years or more. There is no reason why advertising agencies, too, should not outlive their founders and the successors of their founders, growing wiser with each generation, and gathering a priceless possession of recorded experience.

Think of an advertising agency in 2020 being able to turn back in the records to 1920 and say to its clients: "In the fall of 1920 this happened in silk, and this happened in leather and this happened in wheat, and the selling problems which followed were so and so. The present situation has certain aspects that are similar; and the recommendations which we are presenting are based on a recognition of that fact."

We are gaining experience; we are growing more and more valuable as advisers every year.

Don't expect the impossible.

Give advertising time.

"GETTING EVEN" HAS BEEN OUT OF DATE 1900 YEARS

Jesus Tells Us How We Can Really Get Along With Other People

(By C. L. Ficklin, Editor Dekalb County Herald, Maysville, Mo.)

The Sunday School lesson for November 12 is the whole 6th chapter of Luke, although the printed text is only a small part of that chapter. Nobody else had ever preached such a sermon as the Sermon on the Mount, or Sermon on the Plain. It struck new heights. It sounded new depths It unfolded new beauty. It brought out the glory of a new love. It rang the big and beautiful bells of a persistent tenderness that was unknown and unheard of.

Strike out the rest of Luke, and the rest of the New Testament and leave for humanity only this sixth chapter of Luke with this sermon, or the Sermon on the Mount as recorded by Matthew, and you have enough right there to declare and to reveal the divinity of Jesus of Nazareth. These words could have come only from out of the bosom of Almighty God and His own Son.

They say this lesson is one that tells us how to get along with other people. That is certainly a big subject.

I saw a street car stop the other day and heard a loud noise and then a lot of loud noises, and I saw a man with his fist all doubled up, and he hit another fellow on the head and in the face—and they were having a stormy time.

They were 1900 years behind the times—they were just about the most out of date pair of people you can think of.

I saw a man down in the region of Kansas City the other day. He was gray headed. He chewed his tobacco with a stout positive jawbone, and he was telling another fellow a story about like this:

"Well sir I've got even with that old scoundrel. Forty years ago that fellow did me a dirty trick. And he got away with it. I've been laying for him ever since. I've watched my chance to get even with him. My chance never did come until just the other day, and I shore did swat him. I got even with him good and proper and I made it count. The only thing about it that weakens my joy is that he is now an old man. It don't do me as much good to get even with an old man."

So he was draining all the sweetness that he could gather out of the cup of revenge and he was even sucking away at the dregs.

He had been out of date for more than 1900 years.

There is nothing in the "getting even" business."

It dries up the heart. It brings you gray hairs. It grows wrinkles on the soul. It eats up your joy. It maims, bruises, kills the finer sensitiveness of the inner man.

Jesus tells you to love.

And the love that He advises is a love of progressive splendor and expanding beauty.

Do you just love the people that love you?

Then you are like the publicans and sinners. I read a novel some time ago. One of the central figures in the story was a man who gave to the preacher because he thought it was a paying investment. He gave to missions because he thought it gave him a certain standing that would yield a good return. He helped buy books for the Sunday School, or gave to the Red Cross, or gave to the home for the little orphans or helped other institutions of like kind and as he did so he declared that he believed he would not lose any money in the long run—in fact he believed it was a good investment. And one day his boy ripped out to him something like this:

"I am tired of hearing your talk about Christianity being a good investment, and about its paying you well, and about your not losing any money by giving to good causes. You are supremely selfish. You get on my nerves. I wish you would cut it out."

The old man's emotions were just on a hog plane. He was in it for what he could get back out of it. If your Christianity is built on that level you haven't got any Christianity.

And you have been out of date for more than 1900 years.

It is mighty hard to get a complete grip on the full meanng of the love that Jesus was talking about.

Note its progressiveness:

You must not hate.

You must love people.

You must do more than love just those that love you.

You must love those that hate you.

You must love the unlovely.

How many people love the unlovely?

Let us draw a little picture:

Yonder is a gathering of people. It is a big crowd. They are the best people. They are God's people. They are engaged in Christian work.

On the platform and facing the crowd are six little orphan children. In front of them and between the children and the people a man is standing up and speaking. He has brought the orphan children to find homes for them—six little buds of despair.

He finishes his speech with a heavy heart. He has been talking to God's people. He knows that some of those children will find home—but he feels that some of them will not find any homes.

And so the people come up to pick out each an orphan to take home. They hug the little six year old girl with the curly hair and the red cheeks and the pretty teeth and the sweet chatter about her doily.

Sister Jones in the country and Sister Stephens in town and the banker who "wants to do something for humanity and Christianity" all three make application for the sweet looking little fellow at the end of the row—because he is pretty and clean and strong and looks like he would be a favorite with everybody.

And so they pick 'em out. Four are taken. Two are left.

Nobody asked for the little fellow sitting in the middle. He has a birthmark on his right cheek, and he has been wiping his nose on his coat sleeve He has never had a chance.

And he hasn't got much now. Why?

Because people don't go out over the line with a far-reaching love. They just love the lovely. They just love the child that appeals to their pride.

But they do not love the unlovely.

Blessed is the man who can step out with an unselfish love that just reaches out over lines of caste and class and hate and prejudice and pride and style and beauty and does the biggest thing in the world, and—

Loves the unlovely.

White-of-Egg
in Calumet a Vital Element
Most Baking Powders Lack

Don't use a leavener that does not contain white-of-egg. When you do you take chances—you run the risk of spoiling your bakings.

CALUMET
The Economy BAKING POWDER

contains a small amount of white-of-egg. This makes it possible for representatives of the company to test it frequently for leavening strength—right on the dealer's counter. Nothing but absolutely fresh stock is permitted to remain on the dealers' shelves. It must always be up to the high Calumet standard.

BEST BY TEST

Remember the white-of-egg in Calumet protects the success of your bakings. It is the economical positive bake-day aid and its sale is 2½ times as much as that of any other brand.

A pound can of Calumet contains full 16 ounces. Some baking powders come in 12 ounce instead of 16 ounce cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.

MARCEL SAYS BOBBED HAIR IS DOOMED NOW

London, Nov. 10—According to M. Marcel, pioneer of the Marcel wave, the death knell of bobbed hair has been sounded. At the Hairdressers' Exhibition, just opened in London, many variants of the style which will supercede the "bob" during the coming season are shown.

Chief among these is the oldfashioned coiffure popular in the eighties, the hair being parted in the center, combed down very smoothly and finished with a cluster of curls each side, completely hiding the ears.

Silken wigs are the latest fashion craze shown, blue and green colors seeming to be the most popular.

PETER FORCADE FUNERAL TO BE HELD TOMORROW MORNING

Funeral services for Peter Forcade, who died at 12:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon at his home, five miles east of Clearmont, will be held at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Baptist Church in Clearmont. The Rev. R. R. Watts, of Kirksville, a former pastor of the Clearmont church, will officiate. Burial will be in the cemetery at Graham.

Mr. Forcade's death followed a long illness. He was 73 years old and had been a resident of Nodaway County since 1865. He had lived on a farm near Clearmont for nineteen years coming there from Graham. Besides his widow, he is survived by the following children: George F. Forcade of Omaha, Fred C. Forcade of Beloit, Kan., Mrs. Grace Goodson of Phoenix, Arizona, Henry F. Forcade of Graham, Vance Forcade of Casper, Wyo., Mrs. Sophia Kable of Clearmont and Mrs. Ermile Stone of Casper, Wyo.

FOR CROSSING SAFETY

This new crossing warning invented by A. B. Ramsdell, assistant vice president of the Rock Island railroad, has been installed at a railroad crossing in Chicago for a working test. The chief value of the sign is that the word "Stop" does not show unless a train is coming, so that motorists do not become so accustomed to seeing it that they will run by it even when it is lighted. The device has the approval of many railroad safety engineers, Illinois Automobile club and Chicago Motor club.

U. S. CAPTAIN RUFFNER APPROVES NEW OFFICERS

Of First Battalion Here — William Mapel and Rolf Raynor Are New Lieutenants

The personnel of the commissioned officers of the First Battalion, National Guard of the State of Missouri and of the United States, was approved last night by Captain David L. Ruffner for the War Department. They are:

Major, Eugene A. Maynor; Captain Adjutant, Rolf Raynor; First Lieutenant and Reconnaissance Officer, William L. Mapel; First Lieutenant and Signal Officer, Edgar L. Messmer.

These appointments, which are all promotions, will go into effect as soon as the organization of the combat train is completed in Albany. Work on this organization is going on now and a call for the local officers is expected soon.

Captain Ruffner was in Maryville last night and along with Captain Maynor and Lieutenant Raynor he went to Burlington Junction and completed the organization of a service battery there. Fifty-two men were taken into the battery.

After the men were sworn in an election of officers was held with the result that L. G. Yaple was elected captain and Stewart Lewis was chosen as first lieutenant.

The enlistment of fourteen more men in Battery C, located in Maryville, has made it possible for a military band to be had here. This band will be somewhere in the neighborhood of forty pieces. Instruments will be furnished free to the men as will instruction in them. In addition the men will be paid for their services.

This is quite a boost for Maryville. Beside having Battery C., a firing battery, and a military band, the town will be the headquarters of the First Battalion and the officers of the Battalion will be largely filled by local men.

Much interest has been shown at Tarkio and it is highly probable that some sort of an organization will be made there.

Federal recognition has been made of Battery C., according to information received yesterday by Captain Maynor and that is all that has been waited for before the equipment for the Battery was sent to Maryville.

Now that this is done the guns, horses and uniforms should arrive at any time. Four pieces of field artillery will be assigned to Maryville and thirty-two horses will be also sent here. Personal equipment for each man will be furnished. This equipment will include uniform, hat, shoes, overcoat, raincoat, and every other necessary article.

President Uel W. Lamkin of the State Teachers College is highly in favor of the military band and, according to reports, will push the organization so that it may be composed almost entirely of College and high school men in Maryville. There are some thirty or forty men enrolled in the college who play instruments and many of these have already signified their intention of becoming members of the military band.

Should this be done it will place at the disposal of the college men the opportunity to study an instrument free of charge.

S. H. KEMP SENDS $678 CHECK TO SALVATION ARMY TODAY

Several towns that have reached their quota have not sent in their money and it is believed that the county quota of $1,000 will practically be reached.

BOY ROBBERS HAD PLANNED BIG JOBS

Failed in Other Chances

In his trial last year Schlein pleaded with Judge Porterfield for another chance and said he would kill himself if sent back to the reformatory. Judge Porterfield replied:

"You're a good actor, Philip, but I have given you other chances and you've always turned them down."

Friends Led Him Astray

Another sympathy story was told today by Schlein at the Detention home. He said:

"My companions led me astray. I don't like to do wrong, but don't seem able to resist temptation. If some one would watch me all the time and be strict with me, I suppose I could go straight.

"Since my release from the reformatory in March until last week I have been a good boy. I have been working for my father.

"Our gang organized last Saturday," Philip continued. "Allen, Harmon and I named ourselves 'The Dirty Trio' and made plans. When Rigney joined, we didn't change the name as he did not do any 'dirty' work. We used him to watch when we went into houses. Allen won the job of captain shooting dice. He gave it up to Harmon because Harmon was older."

Schlein admitted participation in the robberies confessed to by Allen. One of the boys would knock at the entrance to a home, Schlein said. If an answer was made, he would ask for a fictitious person. If not, the home would be entered.

A Sinking Fund Begun

The boys told the police that they had hoped to rob until they had obtained a "sinking fund" of $1,000 to carry on larger operations, to be decided upon. They had in their room at the hotel clothing and jewelry valued at $600. The homes Allen admitted robbing belong to:

Hudson, daughter of Mrs. Helen Hopkins of Maryville, and a former resident here, by selecting her as a representative at the laying of the cornerstone of the new capitol at Lincoln on Armistice Day. The following clipping is taken from a recent issue of the Norfolk News:

"Mrs. C. W. Hudson, formerly of Norfolk, but now of Lincoln, will be one of Norfolk's representatives at the laying of the cornerstone of the new state capitol at Lincoln, November 11. In response to an invitation to patriotic societies to name representatives to attend the ceremonies, Nancy Gary Chapter, D. A. R., has designated Mrs. Hudson."

RUNS BEANS THROUGH WRINGER, SHELLING 'EM

Wellington, Ohio, Nov. 10—C. M. Ross no longer blisters and callouses his hands, as he did while husking the first fifty bushels of beans. Ross shucked 200 bushels with a new invention in quicker time than he shelled fifty bushels by hand.

He now runs the beans through a wringer, which squeezes the beans out of the pods in an "excellent manner," Ross Said.

Dublin, Nov. 9.—While Lieutenant Joseph Hanraham, of the Free State Army, was speaking to his sweetheart in the streets of Limerick five young men, one of whom was masked, approached and fired revolver shots at him and seriously wounded him in the back. The sweetheart tackled the five and made one a prisoner.

Sour Milk Egg Maker

Hens feed on sour milk as a supplement to their regular ration of grain made the best egg record of all lots fed in a recent investigation at the Missouri Experiment Station. The next best record was made by the hens receiving tankage as a protein supplement.

All hens ate from self-feeders a mixture of bran, shorts, and cornmeal in equal parts, besides a limited amount of grain as a scratch feed.

Sour milk is the best egg maker; and if that cannot be had, tankage does nearly as well.

Illiteracy In The United States

Illiteracy is slowly disappearing in the United States. Ten census of 1910 indicated there were 5,516,163 illiterates in the United States above 10 years of age; the figures for 1920 show a total of 4,931,905 illiterates in the United States above 10 years of age. The following table shows how this illiteracy is divided:

	1910	1920
Per cent of total population illiterate above 10 years of age	7.7	6.0
Per cent of native whites of native parentage	3.7	2.5
Per cent of native whites of foreign or mixed parentage	1.1	0.8
Per cent of foreign-born whites	12.7	13.1
Per cent of Negroes	30.4	22.9

The above census figures are based upon inquiry merely. Persons who can write their names or a few words often consider themselves literate. Many authorities have long thought that a test of ability to use the language in a practical way would reveal a much larger number of illiterates in this country. The late Secretary Lane estimated that perhaps 20 per cent of the citizenship were illiterate. A practical test administered to a million and a half soldiers in the war revealed, to the amazement of many, that 25 per cent of them could make no practical use of written English. All thoughtful persons seem agreed that this appalling situation is a menace to the Nation's highest interests.

A Real Rural Problem.

The total urban population is now slightly in excess of the rural, but the number of illiterates in rural exceeds those in urban communities by one million.

Compulsory school attendance laws well enforced in urban districts, evidently have had a beneficial influence in reducing the number of illiterates 10 to 15 years of age to 0.5 per cent. In rural districts the percentage is 3.8, almost eight times the number found in urban districts. There are four illiterates aged 16 to 20 in our rural districts to one in our urban districts; and of voting age, 21 years and over, the number of illiterates in rural districts is twice the number in the city of urban districts. Of those whose parents are "native" there are more than four illiterates in rural communities to one in urban communities.

The Time To Fight Illiteracy

Now is the time to fight illiteracy by every available means. The fight can be waged in two directions. First, by a more rigid enforcement of our compulsory school attendance laws. Less than three-fourths of our children of school age are actually attending school The laws should be made more stringent in some instances, and all laws now on the statute books should have rigid enforcement. This will cut off the crop of illiterates as they grow up. The second direction of effort in all communities should be toward the eradication of adults illiterates, who have passed beyond school age. Many organizations are co-operating in this work. Chambers of commerce, women's and men's clubs, industrial concerns, and various civic organizations can unite in each community to find their adult illiterates and interest them in attending night schools and availing themselves of all possible agencies for learning. Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart eradicated illiteracy in one of the most remote counties of the mountains of Kentucky by getting the adults to go to night schools. This has since been done in many places. Materials are now available whereby adults can teach themselves. The time is ripe for all patriotic citizens to stimulate adult illiterates in every possible way to learn to read and write.

HOW ONE BOY CAME OUT AT THE PIG CLUB

(Parnell Review)

George Giesken purchased a registered gilt last spring and entered the Pig Club at Parnell, Missouri, paying $71.00 for the gilt. She raised three pigs the first litter. He sold these pigs at the Pig Club sale at Parnell on Oct. 28, 1922, realizing there from $144.90 clear, this leaves a profit for George the neat little sum of $73.00 in cash. And now the same sow has a litter of six, about one month old which Charles says are the best pigs in the country. Boys will have to go some if you beat George next year.

ONLY NECESSITIES CAN BE PURCHASED

IN GERMANY NOW SAYS DISPATCH

FACTORIES ALL HUMMING

And Better Wages Than Ever Before But Prices are Also Much Higher

By C. H. Haddox
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Lima, Ohio, Nov. 10.—German workingmen are finding it almost impossible to support their families on the wages they receive, according to Leon Loewenstein, who recently returned to his home here from a trip to Europe.

"Notwithstanding that wages are higher than ever before in the history of Germany, prices are advancing at a rapid pace," declared Loewenstein. "Necessities of life are nearly out of reach of the common people. Prices advanced from 200 to 1,000 per cent in the last three months.

"In the face of such economic conditions, there is no idleness in Germany. Every factory that can obtain raw material is working. There seems to be a desire on the part of everyone in the country to improve the national condition," Loewenstein said.

"The universal opinion, outside of Berlin, is that the country will not return to a monarchial government. The Republic has endeared itself to the people, who feel that the German reparations to the Allies should be paid, but who frequently express the desire for a longer time in which to pay."

Low cost of traveling in Germany is shown by Loewenstein's experience in going from Cologne to Stuttgart. The trip consumed two hours on the fastest express train in Germany. A party of three made the journey at a total cost of fifty cents in United States currency.

Discussing industrial conditions in Germany, Loewenstein said:

"Just as John D. Rockefeller is the controlling power of the Standard Oil Company and its subsidiaries, just so is Hugo Stinnes the leader in almost every industry and business in Germany.

"Stinnes owns mines which produce every mineral found in the country, heads companies which convert the minerals into raw materials and controls concerns which make the finished products. He also controls the shipping on all the German rivers and controls the electric and telephone systems of Germany.

"Every village and hamlet has electric lights—a thing unthought of a few years ago. It is possible to talk over the telephone from every town to any part of Germany.

"Railroads, which are partly under Stinnes' control, run regularly. There seems to be an improvement in schedules over pre-war conditions," said Loewenstein.
